About LinkPeople

E whakapono ana mātou ko ngā tāngata te mea nui o te ao. At LinkPeople we believe that people are the most important thing in the world.

We are a non-government organisation that supports people to remain housed and have the connections they need to live well.

At LinkPeople we understand that connected communities are healthier and stronger and that a home is a foundation for people to thrive.

The Lakes/BOP FREE sustaining tenancies service provides support to individuals and whānau who are at risk of losing their home.

We offer awahi and support so you can stay in your home. If you are renting and worried you will lose your home, we can help.

Falling behind with rent payments

We can support you to access assistance to pay the rent you owe or to work out an affordable payment plan.

Stress due to overcrowding

If you have too many people staying in your house this can become difficult to manage and cause issues with your landlord. We can support you to find solutions.

Damage to your property

If your property is damaged, really untidy, or you have too much stuff or rubbish. We can work with you so you don't lose your tenancy.

Disruptive and antisocial behaviour

If you are experiencing conflict with your neighbours and landlord due to noise, fighting or disruptions coming from your home, we will listen to understand what's going on and work with you to sort out the situation.

Thriving communities, whānau and individuals

We understand you may struggle to pay rent, keep your whare clean or are in conflict with your landlord or neighbours, because you are facing other challenges in your life.

Our team will work with you to understand your goals and support you to achieve them. This may include accessing other services, organisations and community groups.

Services we work with:

Budgeting

Counselling

Education and employment

Alcohol and drug support services

Family harm

Iwi, whānau and marae
